Subject: Official Notification of the Activation of the International Police Academy (UNIPOL International Police University) Office in the Federal Republic of Nigeria and Request for Institutional Cooperation

Your Excellency,

INTERNATIONAL POLICE ACADEMY (UNIPOL INTERNATIONAL POLICE UNIVERSITY)
INTERGOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATION (IGO)

Respectfully presents its highest compliments to your esteemed Office and wishes to officially notify you of the activation of its office and operational activities within the Federal Republic of Nigeria.

This notification is submitted in the spirit of transparency, mutual respect, and institutional cooperation, reflecting our commitment to establishing a constructive and long-term working relationship with the Government of the Federal Republic of Nigeria and its competent authorities.

Institutional Status and Legal Framework

The International Police Academy (INTERNATIONAL POLICE ACADEMY - UNIPOL International Police University) is an international institution established to advance professional education, research, training, and capacity building in the fields of law enforcement, security, and related disciplines.

The Academy operates as a non-profit organization under applicable legal registration frameworks and maintains international cooperation activities with institutions, professional networks, and organizations in various countries. The Academy's institutional records include registrations and references with relevant international platforms and systems, including registration in the United States of America (Registration No. 7954548), the United Nations Global Marketplace (UNGM No. 933040), the European Commission Funding & Tenders

Portal (F&T No. 884120954), and the NATO Commercial and Government Entity (NCAGE Code BTS01).

Through its constitutive framework, institutional arrangements, and international cooperation activities, the Academy carries out functions of an international nature, including professional training, knowledge exchange, research, and capacity-building initiatives. The Academy's institutional framework is designed to facilitate cooperation with governmental authorities, security institutions, academic organizations, and international partners while respecting the sovereignty, laws, and regulations of each country in which it operates.

The Federal Republic of Nigeria has been selected to serve as the headquarters for the Academy's Africa Command, recognizing Nigeria's strategic position, regional leadership, and significant contribution to peace, security, and sustainable development throughout Africa.

The International Police Academy is dedicated to advancing professional knowledge, education, research, and capacity building for law enforcement officers, military personnel, security professionals, intelligence practitioners, and qualified civilian specialists from around the world.

The Academy develops and delivers specialized education, professional training programs, certification initiatives, research activities, and institutional capacity-building projects designed to strengthen policing standards, security governance, leadership development, international cooperation, and professional excellence throughout Africa and beyond, while fully respecting the sovereignty and internal affairs of every nation.

Official Appointment - Africa Command

The International Police Academy is honored to officially inform your esteemed Office of the appointment of:

Amb. Chief Nwaukor Onochie Jude

Assistant Commissioner of Police
Supernumerary Police Unit
Head of Africa Command
International Police Academy (IPA)

This appointment reflects his distinguished leadership, extensive professional experience, and outstanding contributions to security cooperation, law enforcement, peacebuilding, intelligence collaboration, institutional development, and international partnerships throughout Africa.

In his official capacity as Head of Africa Command of the International Police Academy (IPA), and under the supervision of the Academy's Administration, its Main Office, and its President-General, Amb. Chief Nwaukor Onochie Jude serves as the Academy's official representative and authorized liaison in the African continent.

He has been authorized, within the limits of the powers granted to him by the Academy's senior management, to coordinate and strengthen the Academy's institutional relations with government entities, security institutions, law enforcement agencies, military institutions, academic organizations, diplomatic missions, and strategic partners, in accordance with the Academy's mission, objectives, and approved programs.

These tasks and powers are exercised within the framework of institutional governance and collective coordination, and in accordance with the timeframes and organizational procedures determined by the senior management, until the formation of the relevant committees and the completion of the annual internal elections. All his actions and decisions remain within the scope of the official authorization granted to him, and in accordance with the Academy's policies and institutional regulations.

Institutional Mission

As an international institution established to advance professional education and cooperation in law enforcement and security, the International Police Academy is committed to promoting excellence in policing, security education, law enforcement leadership, research, intelligence studies, counter-terrorism, crisis management, and institutional capacity building.

The Academy delivers internationally focused educational and professional development programs utilizing modern technologies, innovative learning platforms, and expert-developed academic content prepared by internationally recognized specialists in policing, public safety, security management, intelligence, military studies, and related disciplines

International Cooperation and Institutional Relations

As part of its international mission, the Academy has developed an extensive network of institutional cooperation with governmental organizations, security institutions, law enforcement academies, universities, research centers, and professional organizations worldwide.

These relationships support professional education, specialized training, institutional development, research collaboration, knowledge exchange, and capacity-building initiatives that contribute to strengthening law enforcement and security institutions.

The Academy also works in areas relating to:

Counter-terrorism;
Transnational organized crime prevention;
Anti-corruption initiatives;
Border and maritime security;
Intelligence cooperation;
Peace support operations;
Institutional development;
Professional law enforcement education.

The Academy has established institutional relationships and cooperation frameworks in accordance with the nature of each respective relationship and applicable legal and administrative frameworks.
